CONVICTS AND LABOR.

GAIN TO THE CITY WOULD RESULT FROM THE EMPLOYMENT OF PRISONERS.

THE EAST SIDE LANDS AND VARIOUS PARKS AND ROADS NOT LIKELY TO BE IMPROVED UNLESS SOME WAY IS FOUND OF UTILIZING MEN

WHO ARE NOW MAINTAINED IN IDLENESS - LEGAL COMPLICA-

Two methods of employing the prisoners in the Kings County Penitentiary have been sug-One is to let them manufacture supplies for the city departments; the other is to use them in building such roads and improving such parks as would not otherwise be built or ed. The Tribune has explained the legal oblem that will have to be solved before the city departments will buy penitentiary-made Yesterday a Tribune reporter learned at the Department of Charitles and Corrections that there were likewise legal entanglements over the use of the convicts on the roads or in

There seems to be a great aversion on part of city officers to being quoted as saying mything on this question, as they feel that it poker red-hot at both ends-the union labor nd and the taxpayer and humanitarian end. A lawyer who holds a high place in one of the city departments consented to explain the point that has been raised against the use of convicts of the Crow Hill institution on roads and parks, but only after he was assured that his ame would not be used.

"It is my offhand opinion," he said, "that is a violation of law to take prisoners outside of the walls of the penitentiary for the purpose of working them. The commitments under which they are sent to the institution expressly stipulate that they shall be committed the penitentiary and confined therein for a certain length of time. The confinement itself to the nunishment required.

"There is a law which provides for the employment of convicts in State prisons or "cods. but that law offers no hope to the taxpayers of Brooklyn. It is Chapter 266 of the Laws of 1894, and the first section reads:

The Superintendent of State Prisons may employ, or cause to be employed, not to exceed 300 of the convicts confined in each State prison in the improvement of public highways, within a radius of thirty miles from such prison and outside of an incorporated city or village."

"This law applies only to inmates of State prisons and does not apply to penitentiaries. The law distinguishes clearly between State prisons and penitentiaries. This law was not repealed or supplanted by the Legislature of 1896, nor, so far as I know, at the last session of the Legislature. The last few words make it apparent that the Legislature intended that prisoners should not be used on city or village streets. But, so far as that is concerned, if this law does not apply to penitentiary convicts neither does the final prohibition apply to

BARRED OUT OF PARKS AND ROADS.

Park Commissioner Dettmer was not in town yesterday, but a recent conversation which he had with John H. Burtis, Commissioner of Charities and Corrections, makes it highly improbable that he would consent to use convicts to do any kind of work in his department. Mr. Burtis called to inform him that the penitentiary was in a position to furnish his department with brooms, brushes, printing and a large number of other

"If our prisoners could be put to work making good roads," said Mr. Burtis, "miles of roads could be built, and it would not cost the tax payers one cent."

That is undoubtedly true," replied Mr. Dettper, "but there is an existing prejudice against using convicts for such a purpose. I would be compelled to decline your offer." "I understand the situation," replied Mr.

Burtis, and there the matter dropped. If a clear legal right to use the prisoners on such work could be shown, and if Mr. Dettmer would consent to use this class of labor on work that will not be done in any other way, it is agreed that the city of Brooklyn would be vastly the gainer. The Department of Parks is in a greatly crippled state financially, and next year there is no doubt that the Greater New-York will have to issue bonds to make up a deficiency in this Department. Under the old wasteful Democratic administration the Department of Parks received more than $500,000 a year for taking care of nine parks and two or three houlevards. This year the Department has had only $664,736 18 to cover the maintenance and improvement of thirty-five parks and eight parkways. But for next year the unusually small appropriation of $450,000 has been made. This, it is said, will not maintain the parks, much less improve the n.

EAST SIDE LANDS NEED LABOR.

The Legislature authorized the issue of $50,000 bonds for the purpose of improving the unsightly East Side Lands. Owing to the proximity of the city debt limit it was out of the question to sell these and many other bonds. question to sell these and many other bonds. In response to a loud demand, however, Mr. Dettmer has spent $9,000 on the East Side Lands, crippling the work to do it. A fence has been built, some shrubs set at the northwest corner, and some of the most unsightly tin cans and other rubbish removed. He can spare no more money for the work, and it is coming to a close. Before the place can be taken out of the eyesore class it will be necessary to level the land, remove more rubbish and rocks, sow grass, plant trees and cut out paths. This work is all such as could be done by prisoners, and unless they do it there is no prospect that it will be done for a year or so.

The same may be said of the Dyker Meadow Park. The inexpensive work of improving the highlands has been nearly finished. The design of Frederick Law Olmsted requires the turning of a stretch of marsh land into a lagoon, with a pleasant shore line and islands in the centre. This expensive work will not be done. The prisoners could be utilized in the work of throwing the mud from the lagoon part of the land to build the shore and islands.

The Canarsic Park is now only a name. The prisoners could make it also a park by digging trenches, filling in swamp land, forming a pier line and laying out roads and paths. And if they did this they would not take jobs from free labor, because otherwise the work will not be done. The same may be said of the improvement of Rockaway Parkway, to Jamaica Bay, which is authorized by a special act, or of carrying some of the worse than useless hills in the neighborhood of the penitentiary down to build up the Concourse at Coney Island, for which purpose the tracks of the Brighton Beach road are conveniently situated.

AFRAID OF THE LABOR VOTE. In response to a loud demand, however, Mr.

AFRAID OF THE LABOR VOTE.

All the Broklyn officials seem to be terrified lest the labor vote would be lost to the Republican party if anything is done toward giving employment to the prisoners. They point to the experience of the New-Jersey city that tried the employment of prison labor in its streets about a year ago and was met with indignant protests from all sorts of people. John Phillips a year ago and was met with indignant protests from all sorts of people. John Phillips, secretary of the United Hatters of America, who was one of he most active in securing the constitutional amendment and the laws against contract convict labor, does not support the argument that labor would be opposed to employing the convicts in public works. He is in favor of working them on the roads and streets around the penitentiary.

VONKERS.

The sterilized milk dispensary connected with St. John's Riverside Hospital is now in the fourth year of its existence, and since it was opened, in 1894, the death rate of children from digestive troubles has been decreased 50 per cent. In June, July, August and September, 1892, there were 113 deaths among children from digestive troubles; in bered only 48. This excellent showing is being maintained this year, but the season is not yet far enough advanced to give statistics. One hundred and sixty quarts of milk are sterilized each day. This milk is received at midnight from Briar Cliff Farm, the property of Walter W. Law, near Scarborough, and from it about eleven hundred at once placed in the ice box, and at 5 o'clock in the morning the work of sterilization begins. At considerable expense a plant has been put in the basement of the Lodge, in North Broadway. Four different preparations are turned out: Pure milk modified milk, which is a compound of milk, lime barley water. In order that the charliy may be as far-reaching as possible, the charges for the several preparations are put as follows: Pure milk, 2 cents a bottle; other preparations, 1 cent a bottle. This charge by no means covers the expense of the work, but puts the milk within reach of the poorest people of the city. These preparations are sold at the Getty Square, Nepperhan-ave, and Riverdale-ave, drug stores of George B. Wray, and at the drug store of L. J. Schlessinger, in Ashburton-ave. The demand for the milk has increased to such an extent that another branch will soon be opened at Van Houten's drug store, in New-Mainst. The beneficial qualities of the milk have been recognized among a number of well-to-do people, and a large number of private orders for daily delivery are on the books. These people pay a little more for the milk delivered, and this revenue aids in reducing the yearly deficit.

Mr. Foley said that his brother was employed in a commission house at No. 52 Vesey-st. On Monday he started on a week's vacation, and Thursday he went to Coney Island to take a swim in the surf. Mr. Foley said it was probable that his brother was attacked by cramps, as he was subject to them. The body was removed to this city soon after the identification was made.

A card found in the pocket of the dead man led to the belief that he was P. H. Gillooly, of No. 162 King-st. employed by McKeever Brothers, at No. 28 Vesey-st. but it was learned yesterday that a man answering the description of Morris Foley called at McKeevers' saloon a few days ago, inquiring for Gillooly, and the card in question was given to him by a barrender. A RACE CARRIED OVER AT DETROIT.

A RACE CARRIED OVER AT DETROIT

TOO MANY SPLIT HEATS TO FINISH THEM ALL Detroit, Mich., July 23.-For the first time since the Blue Ribbon meeting began it became neces sary to-day to carry a race over from the day upon which it was originally set. The 2:23 class trotting and the Chamber of Commerce purse for pacers produced such split-heat contests that two aces were all that could be finished. Instead of declaring the programme off, the management announced that the 2:14 class pacing, the only unfinished race of the meeting, would be decided Saturday afternoon. Another race will also be given, probably for the 2:11 class pacers. For the 2:12 class trotting. Hastings was the strongest kind of a favorite, but after winning one heat it was evident that he could not win the race, and the public selected Katie, the mare recently purchased by I resident Butler of the New-York Driving Club from Charles Griffith. Katie won the second heat, Vida third and Grand Baron fourth. Then it was easy for Grand Baron, who won as he pleased, out-trotting Vidal at the finish in each instance.

For the Chamber of Commerce consolation stake, Walnut Lad was favorite, and he won the first heat because Forest Herr, who finished first, was set back for running. Hermetic took the next two heats, but made a mistake in the fourth, which allowed Burr Patch to get a heat. In the fifth heat Hermetic clearly outpaced the others and settled the race. Summaries:

sport, but after three heats had been disposed of a heavy shower came up, which so deluged the track that further racing was out of the question, hence both races were carried over until to-day.

In the 2:24 class, which was called first, two heats were trotted before the rain called a halt. The favorite in the ante-race pools was the black stallion Bright Heart, by Gambetta Wilkes, but Thompson was in no hurry to get to the front, giving him an easy mile, while Ed, Lockwood went on and captured the first heat, after a brief struggle with Snipnose and Tudor.

The favorite was let out in the second heat, and when the stretch was reached had his field beaten with the exception of the former heat winner. When he challenged him, however, halfway down the stretch, he went into the air, and Red Wilton, taking the same cue, the pair guiloped home, ten lengths before Toesin Chimes and Snipnose, who were holding a hot dispute for third place, the former reaching the wire a head to the good. The pair which finished in front were set back for running, the heat going to Toesin Chimes, with Snipnose second. The winner's time was not taken. Only one heat was decided in the 2:12 pace. The roan gelding B. B. was a slight favorite, but was only just able to beat the flag after a series of wild breaks. The heat was captured by the bay stallion, I Win, by Harold J., after a brief struggle with Gesner and Sir Eld.

The four-year-old gelding Ed. Lack, 2:18% by Fayette Russei, dam Oricana, by Egbert, will be sold at auction at he track this afternoon to dissolve a partnership.

Italian pedlers, junkmen, etc., appear to be looked upon as legitimate prey by the gangs of hoodiums that infest some of the streets of the city. The Italian had been sorely tried before he drew a revolver and had warned the gang to leave him. This apparently had no effect on the gang, howover, as, according to the story, the boys persisted in their attacks on him until he got desperate and fired off his pistol. MacMahon was nit in the leg and taken to the hospital, and Agnio was arrested and committed to the Tombs in default of $1,500 ball. He is a poor man, and ball of a much less amount would have been just as effective in Keeping him in jail. Agnio was indicted by the Grand Jury last Monday for assault in the first degree. MacMahon's wound, it is said, was only a slight one and he will be all right again in a few days.

FIVE RESCUED FROM DROWNING.

Five young men-Thomas O. Hayes, James Johnston, Bidney O'Brien, Thomas Byrnes and James McGunnigle, while out rowing in the Hudson River last night, were capsized by the wash from the Albany Day Line steamer New-York, off Gienwood. Two of the young men could not swim, and the other three were compelled to tow them to shore, a distance of a quarter of a mile. Some friends of the young men went to their assistance just as the five were sinking from exhaustion.
